

About our Firm

Person-centered Design is the core principle of Kahn's healthcare philosophy and design solutions.

Guided by the legacy of our founder, Albert Kahn, and a passion for architecture and engineering, Kahn commits to putting our clients first and delivering a remarkable product.

Having designed over 45,000 projects around the world, Kahn's expertise starts with architecture, engineering, interior design, landscape architecture, program management, and master planning, and spans through commissioning, business and management needs, strategic facilities planning, value and sustainability analysis.

Kahn's approach to the design of health care facilities is honest and heartfelt. It is shaped by the planners and designers who work on the project's day in and day out and inspired by the people who heal, work, and visit within the walls we create. All health care facilities designed by Kahn embody the principles of evidence-based design and human-centered care. Kahn has been a part of many notable and revolutionary health care projects.
