President's Message - Victor Saroki, FAIA

Hello members! I recently returned from the Design Retreat and although I have a renewed appreciation of my creature comforts at home, I was happy to discover that the cautions about "roughing it" were unfounded. I enjoyed the rustic, casual atmosphere and the design presentations from many notable architects and firms. Harvey

Ferrero's talk was certainly a highlight, as many fellow attendees will agree. Thank you to the committee and the Michigan staff for a great presentation line-up and job well done!

In past newsletters I have mentioned the AIA Large States meeting happening this week and that it is an honor for our state to be hosting the other AIA Large States. I am pleased we will be able to share examples of the great architecture and design that Michigan has to offer with other states, but you might not expect that I am looking forward to the Annual Meeting Day for the exact opposite reason. You see, the Annual Meeting Day, on October 26th, is an opportunity for us to come together as a state to share our concerns, goals and great design ideas with each other. As a result, the Annual Meeting Day is an exciting event and I hope to see many of you this year.

Sincerely,

Victor Saroki, FAIA

Interim Executive Director's Message

Cathy Mosley Hon. Aff. AIAMI

I hope everyone is enjoying the beautiful fall weather and that you are excited for the fall programs available through the AIA. The turn out for the annual Design Retreat was great and we have received positive feedback about this year's retreat, so I hope this is an indicator for our fall programs!

This month's newsletter is packed with events and I realize it is a lot of material to read, so I am going to keep my message as brief as possible in this edition. Some of this month's events include the Large States Meeting, NOMA, BESTT and the Annual Meeting Day. I have been promoting a new speaker from the Annual Meeting Day line-up in each of my Monday Minutes and will continue to do so this month. A few other important topics include the three morning tour options (9-10:30am), the Annual Meeting of Members (3:45-4:45pm), the Town Hall session (4:45-5:30pm) and the Afterglow sponsored by Christman Company (5:30-7pm). Details for these events and more information about the speakers and CES credits can be found on our website. It is a great opportunity for AIA members and AIAS members to learn and lead together. It only happens once a year, but the inspiration and motivation the Annual Meeting Day provides last all year long.

For those of you attending the Annual Meeting Day, please consider attending The Build Environment Showcase- Today and Tomorrow \(BESTT\) event the day before on October 25th. This event, organized by the MSU Land Policy Institute (LPI) will be truly informative and both events will qualify for CEU's. Mark your calendar for Oct 25th and 26th and we'll see you there!

Please take a moment to answer this month's poll question at the top left of this newsletter. The poll results from last month indicated that a number of firms provide employees with continuing education information, but the majority of you search for CEU's on your own. We will be adding more continuing education events to our calendar to ensure that you all have an updated resource.

AIA Michigan Meets with Senator Debbie Stabenow

From the offices of Fanning Howey in Novi, Michigan, 03 October 2012:

"Senator Debbie Stabenow and her staff met with several AIA Members at the offices of Fanning Howey in Novi Michigan on Wednesday. It was a great meeting and a wonderful opportunity to get to know her on a personal level. Ben Tiseo, FAIA, Celeste Novak, AIA, Dr. James Edoff, Assoc. AIA, and Theo Pappas, AIA had an opportunity to discuss several key concerns and issues of the AIA with regard to pending legislation on small business classification which affects a large portion of our membership, and support for continuing legislation on federal requirements for energy efficiency, and sustainable design initiatives. We thanked her for her past support for many of our initiatives and policy recommendations over the years and she pledged continuing support of the efforts of the AIA going forward.

We also had a chance to review several AIA award winning projects from our Huron Valley Chapter that were on display as well as discussing some current innovations in recently completed educational projects of Fanning Howey".

Michigan's Historic Railroad Stations Debuts This Month

In Michigan's Historic Railroad Stations writer and photographer Michael H. Hodges presents depots ranging from functioning Amtrak stops (Jackson) to converted office buildings (Battle Creek) and spectacular abandoned wrecks (Saginaw and Detroit) to highlight the beauty of these iconic structures and remind readers of the key role architecture and historic preservation play in establishing an area's sense of place. The depots, particularly those built in the glory days from 1890 to 1925, epitomize the era's optimism and serve as physical anchors to both the past and the surrounding urban fabric.

Michigan's Historic Railroad Stations will reacquaint readers with the building type that once served as the nation's principal crossroads, and the range of architectural styles it employed both to tame and exalt rail transportation. Readers interested in Michigan railroad history as well as historic preservation can find more information about the book and how to order here.
